The goal of C4C is to transcend the normality currently found at the average summer camp. A vision of West Baltimore native and former Atlanta Falcon Keion Carpenter, and East Baltimore native and former Green Bay Packer Antonio Freeman, C4C is a comprehensive program that will focus on enhancing the mindset of approximately 200 youths between the ages of 8 and 17 years old. The mission of C4C is to teach the campers and their families the importance of everyone being a "team player" while also revealing that life has more to offer than what they may have come to accept as reality based on their experiences. C4C strives to accomplish this while sharing an approach to healthy living.

Geared toward boys and girls, this week long program intends to incorporate the elements of football into an array of activities and entertainment that will help further C4C's goal of teaching lifelong philosophies and principles needed to support a successful and prosperous life. The curriculum includes strategies on learning how to cope with the experiences encountered in life, information on making healthy lifestyle choices, and educational workshops that include applying to high school and college.

"When you refuse to set boundaries to what is achievable, you can inspire others to believe that they too can make anything happen"

LEARNING THE FUNDAMENTALS OF LIFE

The goal of Commitment4Change is to give campers an experience unlike any they have ever had at prior camps they have attended. We want our campers to walk away not only learning and enhancing their football skills as taught by Pros, but to also apply the lessons they will learn to life after camp. We want each camper to know their outlook on life is bigger and better than what they have known, and that anything is possible. These lessons will be taught through the exploration and discussion of:

Trust
Listening = Leading
Knowledge is Power
Good Sportmanship
Unity

HIGHER EDUCATION INFORMATION SESSIONS

We will make available to parents of each camper information sessions that will prepare parents for their child's educational future. We will have staff from Towson University and other professionals available to discuss the 529 Education Savings Plan, preparation for the SAT's, filling out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, college tours and much more.
